

The Assessment Committee, in partnership with Alyssa Melby (Smith Center) and Karil Kucera (Associate Dean of Interdisciplinary and General Studies), developed a sample prompt for instructors to adopt in their OLE Experience in Practice courses. This prompt was initially piloted in Summer 2023 with an internship reflection seminar and the Rockswold Health Scholars program.

Thinking back/Using your Journal as a source to your [OEP experience], give specific examples [a paragraph for each] of how you:

- Identified a new or growing vocational or academic interest
- Connected your OEP learning and any content/knowledge from your other St. Olaf courses
- *Used your knowledge and skills to contribute to a community

Some notes on community and ILO 3 more generally: (1) Faculty may wish to be more descriptive about which community(ies) as it pertains to your OEP experience, e.g., research community, fellow classmates, St. Olaf campus, Northfield non-profit, local community, workplace community, etc. (2) In addition to helping students define and identify “community” students may also benefit from identifying and naming specific roles in the community. The committee encourages faculty to help discern, model, and name specific skills/roles relevant to the OEP experience. These roles are likely specific to the particular discipline/experience.*
