

The Loomis Endowed Academic Award in LATIN
&
The Groton Endowed Academic Award in GREEK

The Department of Classics at St. Olaf College announces the 23rd annual Loomis Latin Award competition and the 22nd annual Groton Greek Award competition.

First prize ($300), second prize ($200), and third prize ($100) in each contest will be determined by performance on a one-hour sight-translation exam.

Both exams will be given on Wed., May 1, 2024, between 3 and 9 p.m. (3-6 p.m. in TOH 308, 6-9 p.m. in TOH 300). Stop by the Classics Department any time between 3 and 8 p.m. to obtain a copy of the exam (or exams, if you would like to take both). No Latin or Greek dictionaries, grammar books, or other translation aids, in either print or electronic format, are permitted.

Winners will be announced on Wed., May 8, 2024.

Any current St. Olaf College student is eligible to take one or both of the exams, but only those who have studied Latin or ancient Greek beyond the elementary level are likely to do well.
