

LINGUISTIC STUDIES WORKSHEET

The Linguistic Studies concentration consists of a minimum of FIVE courses:

1. Linguistic Studies 250: English Language and Linguistics
2. THREE approved departmental offerings at any level (with no more than two of these three courses within the same department)
3. ONE approved Level III course

Please complete this form <https://forms.gle/XT8KX1Xm9w5KkxD76> when declaring the concentration or updating courses as you progress through the concentration.

List of pre-approved courses:

Asian Studies 126: Language in Japanese Society
Asian Studies 240: Talking in Japan and the U.S.: Language, Identity, and Beyond
Asian Studies 244: Language and Race in Japan and USA
Asian Studies 282: Second Language Acquisition and Pedagogy in an Asian Context
Asian Studies 300: Topics in Asian Studies (only when topic is "East Asian Languages and Linguistics")

Computer Science 121*: Principles of Computer Science or Physics 130*: Analytical Physics I

Computer Science 125*: Computer Science for Scientists and Mathematicians

Computer Science 251*: Software Design and Implementation

Only one of these courses (CS121/PHYS130, CS125 or CS251) may be taken for the concentration*

Computer Science 276: Programming Languages

Computer Science 333: Theory of Computation

Education 245: Teaching and Learning English Grammar

Education 250: Second Language Acquisition

Education 321: Teaching of Reading 5-12

Education 345: Teaching of Communication Arts/Literature, 5-12

Education 347: Teaching ESL: K-12

Education 348: Assessment of ESL: K-12

Education 352: Methods in EAL and World Language Instruction

Education 353: Teaching of World Languages, K-12

French 272: Contemporary France

French 372: Topics in Francophone Studies (only when topic is "Langue, Identité et Politique dans la Littérature Francophone")

German 272: Turning Points in German History (only when topic is "History of German Migration")

Greek 231: Intermediate Greek
Greek 253: New Testament Greek
Greek 375: Homer and Greek Epic

Latin 231: Intermediate Latin
Latin 235: Medieval Latin

Linguistic Studies 245: Roles of Language in the Context of Equity and Diversity
Linguistic Studies 396: Directed Undergraduate Research
Music 263: Lyric Diction I & Music 264: Lyric Diction II (must complete both to count as one)

Norwegian 244: The Sámi: Traditions in Transition
Norwegian 260: Germanic Linguistics
Norwegian 372: Topics in Norwegian Literature and Culture (only when topic is “TV & Språk”)
Norwegian 396 Directed Undergraduate Research (only when topic is “CAT Tools for Norwegian”)

Philosophy 240: Formal Logic

Psychology 222: Psychology of Hearing
Psychology 237: Cognitive Psychology
Psychology 339: Cognitive Neuroscience
Psychology 341: Infant Development
Psychology 396: Directed Undergraduate Research (only when topic is “Research in Auditory Cognition”)

Spanish 270: Spain’s Cultural and Linguistic Legacy (abroad) (when taught by Maggie Broner)
Spanish 274: Contemporary Issues in the Spanish-Speaking World (when taught by Maggie Broner)
Spanish 276: Spanish as a First and Second Language
Spanish 311: Language in Society
Spanish 315: Comparative “Hispanidades” (when taught by Maggie Broner)

Theatre 200: Training the Speaking Voice

You also have the option of receiving concentration credit through Independent Study, Independent Research, off-campus study, or Linguistic Studies Category C Agreement found here <https://wp.stolaf.edu/linguistics/forms/>. Contact the Director of Linguistic Studies (Jeremy Loebach, loebach@stolaf.edu) for more information.