Professor Borovsky has teamed up with Roberto Zayas from the Piper Center. Together they will show you newly available information on what Ole physics alumni have done with their degrees, and compare this with national data that is also hot off the press. Come and learn which resources are available to you that can help you discover your career aspirations. Also hear how you can gain relevant experience through internships, research positions, networking, etc.