

Title IX Reporting Process under new Dept. of Ed. Regulations

Reporting Party meets with Title IX Coordinator to report an incident of sexual harassment, sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence, and/or stalking.

Title IX Coordinator offers supportive measures including on- and off-campus resources to the Reporting Party. Title IX Coordinator explains other options including reporting to law enforcement and initiating the College's Grievance Process.

Reporting Party chooses how they would like to proceed. Reporting Party can change their mind at any point in the future.

Reporting Party chooses not to initiate the Grievance Process and continues to access supportive measures, resources, and accommodations. No further action is taken unless the Reporting Party changes their mind in the future or seeks additional supportive measures.

Reporting Party chooses to initiate the Grievance Process and files a Formal Complaint.

A Notice of Allegations is sent to both parties describing the nature of the allegations and parties' rights during the Grievance Process.

Both parties agree to participate in the Informal Resolution Process.

One or both parties decline to participate in the Informal Resolution Process.

Informal Resolution Process is successful; matter is closed.

Informal Resolution Process is not successful or either party declines to participate further in the Process.

Investigation and Hearing Process begins.* See the Investigation and Hearing Process flowchart for more information.

Reporting Party can withdraw their Formal Complaint at any time, thus halting the Grievance Process.*
